Considering the possible BP aneroid error in the temperature and climate change, will be necessary a larger study that cover several sites with different climate and in different times of the year to conclusively compare the efficacy of two instruments: Anerate and digital. Our study revealed the largest efficacy of the aneroid device in comparison with the digital device in the arterial pressure measurement between individuals with 25 years or more in the configuration of the primary health center River. The Approval of the Institutional Committee and the informed consent of the study participants were taken. But the arterial pressure: standard operational procedure to measure arterial pressure was followed [5].
